Some rule changes will be effective July 21, 2011!

Regulation Z examination procedures were revised in January 2011. With 141 pages, this new exam manual covers numerous changes made to Regulation Z over the past two years. This webinar will explain the new changes and what the examiners will be focusing on in your exam. In addition, it will cover the upcoming changes to Regulation Z. For example, effective July 21, 2011, the threshold for exempt consumer transactions increases from $25,000 to $50,000. This amount will be adjusted annually to reflect any increase in the consumer price index. Currently, loans of more than $25,000 are generally exempt from Regulation Z but, effective July 21, loans must be more than $50,000 to be exempt from Regulation Z.

Continuing Education: Attendance verification for CE credits provided upon request.
